

Magdi Ibrahim , Ph.D.

Dr. Ibrahim is a part time faculty Professor of Management at the American University in Cairo. He holds a Masters degree in Management (MPA) from the American University in Cairo (June 1991) and a Ph.D. in Human Resource Management and Behavioral Sciences from the Sadat Academy for Management Sciences (March 1998). He is also an instructor and Master Trainer recognized by both the AUC and the University of Wisconsin Milwaukee, USA, School of Continuing Education. He has been working in the areas of business administration, finance, management, human resource development, executive search, recruitment, consulting and training fields for the past +20 years.

Dr. Ibrahim has a diverse training experience with private companies (local and multinational in different fields and industries such as oil, pharma, banks, telecommunication, contracting, trade, technology, call centre, computer clouding, hospitals, etc). He also worked with public sector, state-owned authorities and ministries (such as international organizations, associations, universities, special nature private bodies, public health, NGOs, etc.).

He works with different cultures; foreign, Arab and Egyptian. He designs, prepares and delivers training programs and lectures in both Arabic and English addressing various levels of employees, management, under secretaries and ministers in a mixed range of programs; management, business administration, public administration, organization behavior, human resource management, performance engineering, field surveys, comparative studies, organizational restructuring, performance management, career development, succession planning, 360 degree, emotional intelligence, vertical and horizontal loading, etc.

He also provides consultancy on matters such as organization restructuring, culture, process mapping, reengineering, organization development, organization culture, performance engineering, total quality management (TQM), project management, strategic planning, operational research, stakeholder management, employee behavior and engagement studies and global attitude surveys.

In addition and parallel to that, he has more than 35 years of professional / practical experience in finance, human resources, administration, IT and legal with multinational corporations in various operations, leadership and senior management positions.

Dr. Ibrahim is a bilingual subject matter expert (SME) who formulates training methodology, designs customized training solutions and conducts training programs. He follows the concepts of American Society for Training and Development (ASTD) and the Instructional System Design (ISD) principles.

He is an active member on a number of human resources professional groups and community service organizations in Egypt. Dr. Ibrahim is the Chair of the Human Resources Management Forum "The HR Blue-Ribbon", a member of the Egyptian Human Resources Management Association "EHRMA" and a member of the Egypt Finance Directors' Forum. He is also a member of the American Society for Training and Development (ASTD) as well as a member in Rotary International Organization.

=====